TikTok has no clear privacy policy, forcing users to rely on their own judgement to decide whether or not they need to lock down their privacy settings. This has led to many users feeling concerned about where their personal information is being collected, stored and used. A number of third-party apps have been developed in order to help TikTok users better manage their privacy settings.", TikTok was initially launched in February of 2021 by a guy named Evan Spiegel together with an ex-entrepreneur named Bobby Murphy and the app was then acquired by tech giant Snap Inc. in April of 2021. Many people have become new users thanks to its ability to allow users to share their own videos, short videos, and more while answering viewers' specific questions and sharing advice on how to live life better. It's been reported that the userbase has increased massively since July 5th, where it reached over 100 million monthly users worldwide. The app is now recognized as one of the biggest social media apps in the world alongside other popular social media apps such as Facebook. By the end of August, Spiegel removed a number of Twitter and Facebook-like features (emojis, likes, photos) from the app in order to make it more suitable for its users.",

According to many users, the app suffers from bugs that makes it hard for users to follow other users on the app. Some cases include not being able to see some of the filters used in a video or even being unable to see people's comments on posts. There have also been allegations by multiple users that their accounts have been hacked or deleted without their consent. On December 13, 2021, the company faced backlash over its handling of inappropriate content and in turn lost a lot of users. In some cases, people have had their accounts deleted without the option to retrieve.",

This means that if TikTok were to discover that a user had posted videos on the platform without having paid for it and requested their money back, it would be required by law to comply with the user's request and then turn over at least some of the appropriate funds. This would help ensure that users who post content on TikTok are not acting as scammers as well as potentially avoid issues with law enforcement.",

According to a report by "Bloomberg" in August 2021, Zain Saudi Arabia is working with TikTok as they use the platform as a way to educate young people. The app has reportedly been downloaded over 40 million times since it was launched in Saudi Arabia. The company also plans on working with restaurants and events to allow users to purchase food or tickets through the app. The app is also reportedly being used by doctors in Saudi Arabia as a way to educate people on how to maintain themselves.",
