In March 2019, some people were receiving notifications stating that a video they posted contained inappropriate content which violated TikTok's terms. Many of these videos were also tagged with a warning which stated that the content contained mature themes and was not suitable for viewers under the age of 18. The following is one example where someone was tagged with a warning for posting a video containing nudity:",

In 2018, TikTok has been involved in a number of issues with regard to what people are allowed to post or not post on their platform. In January 2019, it was reported that a number of TikTok users were receiving a notification stating that the content they wish to upload would violate the app's terms and conditions if it is posted publicly. This was because the content in question was too graphic or violent. The following is a screenshot of the notification that was received by some people who tried to post an image of a self-harm victim",

In addition to offering its users the ability to create their own short videos and make money from their efforts, it is also possible to post videos that have already been created by other individuals. This feature has also attracted criticism because it appears that people are getting paid for using TikTok's platforms as a means to promote certain products and services. For example, in the January 2018, it was noted that some people were being paid to post videos on TikTok encouraging viewers to buy products from Amway. As many of the creators of these videos are also making money from their efforts by promoting these products, it is possible that they may be getting paid for creating a review video for someone's product. Once again, this is something that requires people to rely on their own judgement in order to decide whether or not they feel comfortable using this feature.",

According to data from Sensor Tower, the total revenue generated by TikTok's apps has reached $1 billion in 2017 alone. Despite this success, up to 70% of its userbase drops out each month due to lack of engagement with other users on the platform. This rate is significantly higher than Instagram and Snapchat, where the dropout rate is much lower at around 10%.",

As of December 2018, TikTok has 1 billion monthly active users with about 70%+ of its users from India alone. This makes the app more popular than Instagram and Twitter in terms of monthly active users.",
