In another article published on The Guardian, TikTok was criticized for its lack of a privacy policy and transparency about how it uses users' data. "TikTok's chief marketing officer, Ed Wu, told Forbes the app has more than 200m monthly active users and that it is 'very transparent' about how it uses data for targeting advertising. However, he did not respond to questions about whether the app has a privacy policy and users were unable to find one in their apps because there isn't one. When asked about how long the company keeps users' data, Wu said in an emailed statement that it's 'subject to our internal policies and applicable law.'";

In February 2021, Advertising Week Europe included TikTok in their annual list of top 10 advertising trends. In order to create the ranking they compiled the results of a survey from fourth-quarter 2021 and compared it to a similar study from 2021. The study identified three key factors that contribute to the ranking: time spent on ad content, levels of engagement, and presence of ads in other formats. TikTok ranked fourth out of the ten companies; Snapchat, Instagram and Facebook took the first three spots with TikTok ranking behind Twitter due to Snapchat's immersive advertising experience.";

In March 2021, it was announced that ongoing privacy concerns were being raised against the app. According to "Buzzfeed News", posts from users are supposed to be moderated by their followers and friends which would prevent any spam or negative content from reaching other followers and friends. However, some of the posts that reach the top of a user's feed come straight from the app itself.";

In April 2021, it was reported that TikTok had reached a deal with Tencent in order to launch a new business model which would allow the app's users in China to apply for micro-loans provided by Tencent's own Weixin Pay as long as they created content on TikTok. This service was set to launch in the second half of 2021.";

According to a report by "Bloomberg" in August 2021, Zain Saudi Arabia is working with TikTok as they use the platform as a way to educate young people. The app has reportedly been downloaded over 40 million times since it was launched in Saudi Arabia. The company also plans on working with restaurants and events to allow users to purchase food or tickets through the app. The app is also reportedly being used by doctors in Saudi Arabia as a way to educate people on how to maintain themselves.";
